Our world has a heritage of culture and beauty, but unfortunately. We have been handing on this heritage only to the less active and Important members of each generation. The government of the world, by which I do not mean its ministerial posts but its key positions of power, has been allowed to fall into the hands of men ignorant of the past, without tenderness towards what is traditional, without understanding what they are destroying. There is no essential reason why this should be the case. To prevent it is an educational problem, and not a very difficult one.

(b) An inherited cultural tradition

(c) Too many cultural

(d) Cultures which are now extinct

Q-14. 'The less active and important people' are the

(a) Lazy people

(b) Uncommitted people

(c) Common people

(d) People who are in position power

Q-15. "Men ignorant of the past" means the persons who

(a) Do not learn from experience

(b) Ignore the lessons of history

(c) Are not aware of history

(d) Have no respect for the past
